Annual Meeting - November 17

Proposed Changes to the Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws

The Trails Club of Oregon Board of Trustees are proposing to transition the club to a 501(c)3 tax classification. This requires changes to both the Articles of Incorporation and the Bylaws. Look for the text of the proposed changes on our web site: <https://trailsclub.org/bylaws/>. These changes will be voted on at the Annual Meeting on November 17.

The Articles of Incorporation reflect the requirements for a 501(c)(3) organization.

The new bylaws are brief compared to the current bylaws as they contain the elements of the Club's governance that will rarely change. The elements of the current bylaws that are subject to frequent change will be contained in a Practices and Policies document. The Practices and Policies document can be changed by a Board vote.

Vice President Trustee Needed

There is an opening for the board position of Vice President for the 2025-2026 term. The commitment for Vice President is to attend the monthly zoom board meetings.

This is a great way to serve the club with minimal responsibilities, be a voting club officer, and see the inner workings of the club.

Outdoor Education and Outreach Trustee Needed

There is an opening for the board position of Outdoor Education and Outreach Trustee for the 2025-2026 term.

Please contact the nominating committee chair Julia Carroll at juliamace1993@gmail.com

Trip Report

Surprise and Warm Lakes, in the Eastern Goat Rocks Wilderness 9/24-26, 2024

Having hiked the west side of the Goat Rocks on several previous occasions, I have long wished to explore the “back” side of these beautiful mountains. With good weather and clean air in the forecast, an opportunity finally presented itself on September 24-26 for a three-day adventure. Two experienced backpackers (Emiko and Abraham) and I made the long drive up from Portland to the Conrad Meadows TH, and headed out across the expansive Conrad Meadows on a pleasant, sunny afternoon. The trail meandered a bit at first, but was in good condition and relatively easy to follow using GAIA-GPS. After about 1.5 miles we entered the forest, crossed a couple of streams on somewhat dilapidated bridges, and eventually climbed up switchbacks to scenic Surprise Lake at 6.7 miles/1300' from the TH. There, we found ample campsites, and in contrast to the busy west-side camping areas such as Snowgrass Flats, absolutely no one else to be seen! Most of the lake was surrounded by forest, but there were good views of Mt. Curtis Gilbert and its surrounding peaks to be found on the south shore of the lake.

The next morning we awoke to clear skies and set forth to explore Warm Lake and the high country at the foot of the eastern Goat Rocks. After leaving Surprise Lake, the trail ascended through mixed woods and meadows to an unmarked but obvious trail junction about a mile from the lake. We took the left fork and ascended, steeply at times, eventually traversing to the top of a rocky slope where views of the Goat Rocks really began to open up. Continuing on the trail for another 100 yards, a small but obvious trail to the southwest was taken, through patchy woodlands and meadows, to some of the most remarkable scenery I have experienced anywhere in the northwest. Huge, expansive meadows opening up to grand views of the entire Goat Rocks range greeted us, with steep rocky summits and icy glaciers hanging above the abyss. My hiking companions, who have traveled extensively, compared it to being in the Dolomites of Italy.

We made it up to Warm Lake (3 miles/1100' above Surprise Lake), where we stopped to admire the views and have lunch, not wanting to ever leave this beautiful place. However, the wind picked up and some dark clouds began building above the Goat Rocks crest, so we reluctantly made our way back down to our camp at Surprise Lake, arriving just as the raindrops began to fall. The late afternoon and evening brought us steady rain, lasting until the sky finally cleared somewhere around midnight. We awoke to a starry sky and the sound of two owls hooting in the trees at daybreak, broke camp and made our way back down to the car and the drive home.

I have backpacked for many years, but this adventure turned out to be one of the most remarkable I have ever done. The scenery was unsurpassed, and made all the more remarkable by the absence of the crowds only a few miles away on the west side of the mountains. I hope to repeat this trip again next year, so that others can experience it as well.

Publications Report, Joel

Joel did last month's Blazer. We're not sure about the new editor.

Nesika Report, Pete

A volunteer weekend was hosted by Pete Recksiek and Trisha Schultz on 9/6-8. Trisha and Nina cooked for 16 volunteers. Jerry Manuel constructed a workbench for the basement. Jeff Lawton repaired the propane shed lid. Many worked on clearing trails and roads. Craig Gwydir hung signs for The Point and High Water Trail. They were made to Forest Service specs. The basement of dorm was cleaned and organized. Lynn Cochran and David Bogardus planned and mapped electrical wiring. The bridge was repaired in October by Eric and Carl. Several members were trained to open and close the lodge. No funds were collected as it was a work weekend.

Tyee Report, Paul

September was a slow month with only one work party. Firewood for the winter was brought in. The games room remodel continued. Last Friday the mural was completed by Sheryl Wagner and the floor completed by Lori Leech and Paul. Monday, the lean-to was started by Richard Gaunt and Paul. The second and final work-in-lieu litter pickup was completed at Old Maid Flats through to Ramona Falls trailhead. There were six volunteers, an ideal number for 3 hours. We received a visit from Cate Dillion, the Forest Service permit coordinator. Paul learned that the Oregon Contractual rate has been increased to $34.57/hr. Therefore, our May and September litter pickup values have increased by another $200. It is important to maintain this partnership with the Forest Service if the club wishes to keep the annual permit fee as close as possible to the $300 minimum. We will have maintenance done on the furnace on alternate years starting next fall.

Trips Report, Craig

We had 1 day hike, 1 backpack and the Wednesday night conditioning hikes during the month of September. The "TCO Hike Leaders Zoom Meeting" is starting up again in October after being suspended during the summer. The trail restoration committee has named themselves the "TCO Stormy Trails Restoration Committee" and the following trail work was completed this last month around Nesika Lodge: - Cougar Rock trail was brushed out again - trail is clear - High Water trail was brushed out - trail is clear - Ornament Trail was brushed out - trail is clear - Nesika/Franklin connector has been partially restored from the Nesika Lodge side. Work is about 60% complete. The remaining work shall hopefully be completed during the November work party at Nesika Lodge, weather permitting.

Please email tripschair@trailsclub.org if you are interested in assisting with trail restoration. We need more volunteers who would like to learn about interesting adventures on the Multnomah Plateau and are willing to help co-lead hikes and/or join a TCO trips planning committee. If interested, please join our "TCO Hike Leaders Meeting" on Zoom this month, or send questions to tripschair@trailsclub.org.

Social Report, Vacant

Nomination Committee, Julia Carroll via email:

Notifications have been placed in the Blazer highlighting the open positions for Social and VP. No one has reached out to inquire more about these positions. Julia has not been able to follow up further. However, Lori Leach has offered to co-host a Meetup for members to connect and learn more about serving on the Board, etc. A possible date is for this meetup is 10/23/24.

Outdoor Education and Outreach Committee, Julia Carroll via email:

We met on 10/7/24 via Zoom. Attendees: Julia Carroll, Chris Seubert and Lori Leach. Chris submitted a full annual report of his activity. Julia will add her activity to the report and submit it for the Annual Meeting in November of 2024. We plan to continue volunteering with the organizations we've connected with this year: Sierra Club, Inspiring Connections Outdoors, Big Brothers Big Sisters, People of Color PDX and Wild Diversity. Lori shared that the Social Trustee position will change to the Outdoor Education Trustee. Julia shared the foundational document with Lori that outlines the focus of the DEI/Outdoor Education Committee since 2022. At this time there is not another meeting scheduled for this committee.

OLD BUSINESS

1. 501(c)3 Status: Lori, Rebecca, & Bev

Lori has been working hard with some support from Bev & Rebecca, to rewrite all our founding documents, bringing in ideas from our sister clubs who have already converted to non-profit status, and to preserve the essential structures of our current bylaws, and policies. We worked through the Bylaws to fine tune them. The Board moved and seconded to present our restated Articles of Incorporation and the new Bylaws to the membership at the annual meeting for a vote. The motion passed unanimously.

2. Trisha Schultz attended the FWOC annual meeting on November 17, 2024.

Website content updates –can be found at www.federationofwesternoutdoorclubs.org

3. The Annual Meeting will be held at the Boy Scout Office on 11/17/24 at 2 PM.

NEW BUSINESS

1. Dogs attending work parties. (Nicole)

We discussed a policy about dogs for the lodges. At Tyee, dogs have to stay outside since there are carpets and upholstered furniture. It's more of a problem at Nesika when the doors are open during the summer months. We decided to ask registrants to register their dog when attending an event at Nesika.

Craig, Nicole, Paul and Pete will work on a further policy for lodges and hikes.

2. The Board has a budget worksheet to help all departments with 2025 budget planning. We will finalize the budget in next month's meeting.

3. We need to publish an announcement of the annual meeting, and link to the new document changes for voting.
